

MR. GORMAN'S PLAN IS NOW WITHDRAWNNO TREASURY NOTES ARE TO BE ISSUED.

The Financial Question Gets a Thorough Discussion in the Senate—Lack of Revenue Said to Be the Trouble—A Row on With France—Washington News.

Washington, Feb. 28.—In the senate yesterday the amendment to authorize the issue of certificates of indebtedness was withdrawn by Senator Gorman after a rather exciting debate, thus cutting off all hope of financial legislation at this session.

There was much confusion during the financial debate. Mills was in a fighting mood and made a strong criticism of the issuing of bonds. He spoke of the public abhorrence of a national debt. There was also a sharp colloquy between Mr. Hill and Mr. Mills as the latter discussed greenbacks.

Gorman's speech was received with profound attention. When Mr. Wolcott interrupted with the query, "Has the secretary of the treasury notified the senate that he does not want such legislation as this?"

"That is the whole question," responded Mr. Gorman, "and if the senator will permit me I will, in my own crude way, present the question of the secretary's necessities."

"Is the treasury in such condition that it can provide for the wants of the government?" asked Mr. Gorman. "Are the revenues now coming in sufficient to meet the expenditures and the appropriations we are making? If our actual expenditures are greater than our receipts we can not afford to adjourn until we meet this emergency unless congress wants more bonds sold to meet our obligations."

Mr. Gorman then unfolded an elaborate table of figures. He said the answers made by the secretary of the treasury in response to inquiries by the senate were on their face somewhat misleading, showing little cause for fear of deficiency, but an analysis of these figures presented a far less hopeful aspect. "I think I will be able to demonstrate," said Mr. Gorman earnestly, "that the secretary of the treasury will have a deficiency of $30,000,000 for the calendar year and $60,000,000 for the fiscal year."

Mr. Gorman said the secretary's reply to the senate stated that there was $106,000,000 on hand available to pay ordinary expenditures. He (Mr. Gorman) knew this was a mistake and he went to the treasury and said to those who made up the figures: "Your figures are misleading. You have made a mistake." He called attention to the fact that they had omitted checks, drafts, etc., outstanding. These had been included in the monthly report. It disclosed that there was annually $67,000,000 available. Here was a mistake of about $30,000,000 to begin with. Mr. Gorman proceeded to itemize the immense sums due for rivers and harbors, public buildings, etc. He also took up the secretary's estimates of receipts he hoped to have. The secretary estimated his total expenditures at $358,000,000. In 1893 the appropriations were $500,000,000, and already the house had appropriated $374,000,000 for this year. The senate will add $20,000,000. The total will be $390,000,000, and the senator said he would stake his reputation that it would reach $400,000,000.

In taking up the question of gold payments Mr. Gorman said they all knew perfectly well the government would always maintain its gold payments.

Mr. Allison (rep., Iowa), who followed, warned the senate that the moments were flying, that unless the sundry bill was disposed of at once and other bills in the next two days the responsibility of an extra session would rest on congress. Proceeding, he said that he favored the amendment of the committee on appropriations, because he believed the secretary of the treasury should have such provision made to meet current deficiencies (if there be any), the secretary of the treasury would mortgage the future and continue to sell thirty-year bonds to meet these deficiencies. Mr. Allison called attention to the absolute futility of attempting any real remedial financial legislation at this late hour in the session. The lack of time makes some such temporary specific a necessity, said he.

Mr. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, then addressed the senate with a prepared speech against the amendment. He denied that the credit of the government was threatened anywhere in the world. That was shown by the quotations of our bonds abroad. He could not support this measure, which sought to give the secretary of the treasury a power he did not ask to provide for a deficiency that did not exist.

Mr. Sherman said he considered the pending amendment perfectly germane. Two years ago he offered a resolution almost identical to this amendment and it was supported by an overwhelming vote without division on party lines. If the provision had gone through the house and become a law, the country would not have been in its present condition. Mr. Sherman said he would vote for the amendment, although he regarded it as the duty of the democratic side of the chamber to clear up the doubt.

In reply to queries by Mr. Hill Mr. Sherman said the greenbacks should not be redeemed. They were the favored money of the people. Turning to the loss of revenues the senator said it was a certain sequel to the changes of the tariff law. This always occurred as a result of tariff changes without reference to the party making it. Let these certificates be enacted and let the debt certificates or bonds be circulated among our own people—the plain people; as Abraham Lincoln called them—and there would be an end of danger. In the course of his remarks Mr. Sherman made a significant appeal to the appropriations committee to withdraw this amendment, saying it would never pass without the fullest discussion.

Mr. Hill then took the floor. He first discussed the technical parliamentary status. If this financial amendment was in order then the floodgates were open and any kind of financial legislation could be added to an appropriation bill. Once upon this complicated question and an extra session was inevitable. In the expiring hours of congress it was unwise to sweep away the ample powers of the secretary to issue bonds and give him some new and untried power he did not want. Mr. Hill pointed out that the danger to the treasury was not in a deficiency on current expenses, but in gold to redeem the endless chain of greenbacks. And yet this pending amendment provided funds for deficiencies alone, and gave no means of securing the gold, which was the real need of the treasury. Mr. Hill closed was an earnest protest against the financial amendment.

Then Mr. Gorman said in view of the statements made during the debate and also of the intimations of obstruction, he was authorized by the committee of appropriations to withdraw the pending financial amendment.

Mr. Mills (dem., Texas) at once offered an amendment repealing all laws giving authority for the issue of bonds.

Mr. Aldrich made a point of order against the amendment as general legislation, and it was sustained. This closed the financial debate.

ROW ON WITH FRANCE.

The United States Opposes Its Santo Domingo Program.

Washington, Feb. 28.—A question has recently arisen for the determination of the state department affecting the relations of the United States with all of the countries of Central and South America and the independent republics of the West Indies. Several years ago the president of Santo Domingo forcibly entered the premises of a French bank there and took from the vaults a considerable sum of money which he alleged to be owing him. The matter being reported to the French government a formal demand was made for a restoration, which was refused. The French government indicated a purpose of sending some war vessels to Santo Domingo to enforce a collection. The finances of Santo Domingo are now in the hands of an American company. Secretary Gresham, about two weeks ago, cabled to Mr. Eustis, our ambassador to France, and instructed him to inform the French government that the United States could not look with indifference upon its proposed action. This action will affect all the South American republics.

IN THE SENATE.

Work on the Sundry Civil Bill Resumed.

Washington, Feb. 28.—After the financial debate closed yesterday in the senate work on the sundry civil bill was proceeded with. Among the amendments agreed to was one authorizing the selection of nine commissioners to represent the United States at the International Monetary conference. Another important amendment agreed to provides for a commission of United States army officers to investigate the Nicaragua canal project, going over the route and making a report.

Chairman Cockrell of the appropriations committee stated the appropriation bills could now be disposed of on time.

An amendment was agreed to providing for the appointment of three United States commissioners to join with those of Great Britain or Canada in proposing a water route from the great lakes to the Atlantic.

Mr. Stewart entered a motion to reconsider the amendment providing for representation at an international monetary commission. Mr. Walcott secured the adoption of an amendment appropriating $100,000 for beginning work on the Denver mint.

LABOR BILL SUITS ALL.

Slight Opposition in the Senate May, However, Retard Adoption.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—There are no sensational remarks of any kind following the passage by the house of the arbitration bill. The favor which has been shown that measure by prominent labor leaders predicted clearly a predominating sentiment in both houses of congress favorable to the enactment of a measure in keeping with the one adopted. The framers of the bill have undoubtedly confidence in its welcome passage into all legitimately organized labor circles. It can be regarded now as a matter of course that no matter how slight an opposition to it is developed in the senate, that it will be brought to a vote, and that it will be passed with almost certain danger to the bill. Its friends, however, consider it an entering wedge of solving the labor question which, if not successful just now, is bound to bear fruit of incalculable benefit to the laboring classes before the expiration of the next session of congress.

Signed by the President.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The President has signed the following acts: To amend the articles for the government of the navy; to amend section 2,455, R. S., relative to the sale of isolated tracts of public lands less than a quarter acre in extent; authorizing the delivery of condemned cannon to certain G. A. R. posts; to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Yellowstone river, Dawson county, Mont.; to provide for the examination and classification of mineral lands in Montana and Idaho; donating certain naval cannon to the Oregon State Soldiers' Home, Roseburne.

Pension Appropriation Bill Passed.

Washington, Feb. 28.—In the house yesterday Mr. Cockrell (dem., Texas) moved concurrence in the senate amendment to the joint resolution prohibiting the importation of goods in bond from the United States through the free zone of Mexico. Agreed to.

Mr. O'Neill (dem., Miss.) presented the conference report on the pension appropriation bill. An agreement had been reached, he explained, on all points. The report was agreed to, 180 to 12.

The twenty-one pension bills favorably acted on at last Friday night's session were passed in half the number of minutes. Adjourned.

KILLED BY SCORES IN A MEXICO MINEIN ALL EIGHTY-FIVE MEN WERE UNDERGROUND.

Twenty-Five Bodies Have Already Been Recovered and There Is No Knowing How Many More Are Dead—The Work of Rescue Proceeds Slowly.

Alberquerque, N. M., Feb. 28, 4 p. m.—It is now believed that all the victims of the mine explosion at Los Cerrillos yesterday have been taken out. The dead number twenty eight and eighteen were injured, some of whom will die. The cause of the accident was not definitely known.

Cerrillos, N. M., Feb. 28.—White Ash coal mine, three miles from Cerrillos, was the scene of a terrible explosion a little before noon yesterday. Thirty-five men were working in four levels when the disaster occurred. Eleven of them have so far been rescued, all in a dying condition. Up to 10 p. m. twenty-five bodies have been taken out horribly mutilated and difficult of identification. The scenes of the identification of the wounded and dead were heartrending. The miners are all married men. When the news of the disaster spread, wives and children hurried from Waldo and Madrid. Not until evening, owing to the smoke, dust and noxious vapors that filled every approach to the workings, could any progress be made toward effecting a rescue and the efforts were cruelly retarded, for up to 7 o'clock but one miner had been reached. His dead body was found near the entrance. Three hours later the rescuers succeeded in reaching the left fourth level and the dead bodies of several men were brought out.

The sight about the mine was heartrending in the extreme. Frantic wives many of them carrying babies in their arms, having children clinging to their skirts or to them, stood at the entrance of the mine for hours amid tears and prayers watching and waiting, while hundreds of men vainly struggled to gain entrance further into the mine. Up to 5 o'clock the gas continued to pour forth from the single opening in the mine in such volume as to make the progress of the rescuers very difficult, but an hour later the noxious vapors cleared away and the work of recovering the dead bodies began to prove more successful.

Later in the evening eleven dying miners were discovered in a bunch. They were probably overcome in an effort to escape. It is thought the explosion was caused by the miners breaking through into some abandoned working, thus liberating the gas that had accumulated. The mouth of the shaft is the sole means of egress.

Nobody seems to know just how many men went into the mine in the morning. Ordinarily 150 men are employed, but the day being Wednesday it is said scarce half the usual quota of men were at work. Representative Laeden, lately employed there, says he is confident that not less than eighty-five men must have been in the workings at the time of the explosion. Twenty-two are known to be dead.

Gives Their Ideas on Dress Reform.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Dress reform was the theme of the discussion throughout yesterday's session of the national council of women. Practical suggestions for furthering the improved dress movement were made in the report of the chairman of the dress committee, Francis E. Russell of St. Paul, Minn. The committee made a vigorous protest against the present cumbersome skirts, high heels, and constricted waists, and characterized the modern civilized woman's dress as a demonstration of habitual idleness. The session closed with a plea for reform dress by Julia Pauline Leavitt of Maine, who referred to dressmaking as a profession in which stupidity was colossal.

Women the Victims of Whitecaps.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Manda Hamilton, 35, alleges that four masked men entered her house near Granville Monday night and beat her and her aged mother, Mrs. Eliza Graham, into insensibility. She swore out warrants for the arrest of Albert Sherry, Walter Berry, Elmer Ball and Rollie Wright, charging them with the crime. One of the men is justice of the peace in the township. It is thought Mrs. Hamilton is injured internally and may not recover. This is the first whitecap case for this county, and the prominence of the people concerned has caused much excitement, and further trouble is expected in that city, as the women have hundreds of sympathizers.

May Live to be Hanged.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—The physicians of the German hospital reported yesterday that James B. Gentry, the murderer of Madge York, will probably recover. He is improving slowly each day.

Heavy Snows in Switzerland.

Berne, Feb. 28.—In the German cantons of Switzerland a snow storm has prevailed without cessation for thirty-six hours. Two feet of snow has fallen and the storm continues.

Receipts of Gold for New Bonds.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The aggregate amount of gold coin received up to yesterday by the government on account of the recent purchase of bonds is $37,138,125.

HE SAW MEAD SLAIN
AND KNEW THE MENIMPORTANT WITNESS FOUND
BY THE SHERIFF.

Was an Eye Witness of the Whole Crime and Recognized the Murderers But Didn't Dare Tell What He Knew For Fear of Them—Criminal News.

Waupaca, Feb. 28.—It has just leaked out that Sheriff Andrew Williams, of this county, has been on the track of an important witness in the Mead murder case for a long time, and has finally located him at Sturgeon Bay, for which place he left last night. It is said that he was an eye witness of the whole affair, and recognized all the parties, but did not testify, as he feared the murderers. He finally mentioned the fact to a Menominee friend, who in turn notified the sheriff.

Checotah, I. T., Feb. 28.—Detective Farmer, Deputies Williams and Brittain of Fort Worth, Texas; Deputy James Nakedhead of Muskogee, and Deputies McCaughan and Hosey with a posse surrounded a house at Brush Hill, occupied by Ben Hughes and Jeff Souther, who are wanted for the Jordan, Texas, train robbery. In the fight Nakedhead, a Cherokee officer, was killed, and Ben Hughes captured. After being shot through the arm, Souther, who is supposed to be Silvers, escaped. Sam Baker was also arrested at his home, and will probably prove an alibi. Detective Farmer has followed Hughes and his gang for four months. Nakedhead, who was an Indian policeman and deputy marshal, was fearless.

Another Texas Train Robbery.

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 28.—Last night at 8 o'clock the north bound Houston & Texas Central train as it stopped at the intersection of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, five miles north of here was held up by seven highwaymen, who overpowered the engineer with six shooters. They ran the train half a mile and compelled Express Messenger A. H. Harris of Wells-Fargo to open his door and safe and tear open packages. There was no money, but the robbers took the express messenger's pistol. The sheriff is out with bloodhounds trying to run down the robbers.

Gloomy Outlook in Cuba.

Madrid, Feb. 28.—It is reported here that the disturbances in Cuba are of a serious nature. The Spanish government, however, denies that it has received information that the twenty-four persons reported to have been arrested in Cuba have been summarily sentenced to death.

Kills His Wife, Daughter, and Himself.

Holington, an., Feb. 28.—John M. Herres, a shoemaker, last evening fatally stabbed his wife, killed his 4-year-old daughter Fannie, and then committed suicide. He was crazed with liquor.

RESIGNS FROM THE CABINET.

Postmaster General Bissell Gives Up His Office.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Postmaster-General Bissell has resigned and the resignation has been accepted. William L. Wilson of West Virginia has been practically offered the place and unless present plans are changed will be the next head of the postoffice service. Postmaster-General Bissell has contented resigning for some time, but it was not until yesterday that his decision was made final, and the resignation was accepted to take effect at the convenience of Mr. Bissell, which will be about a month hence. It is said the threatened loss of his very large and lucrative law business is the cause of Mr. Bissell's action. Everywhere are heard sincere expressions of regret at his retirement.

Pushing the Appropriation Bills.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—The legislative appropriation bill passed the senate yesterday and the house passed the congressional appropriation bill. The famous Nicholson temperance bill is pigeon-holed with the senate committee. If the senate should refuse to call it from the committee the prohibitionists will have received the worst knockout in years. The house also passed the old fee and salary law of 1891, with the proper correction of errors that caused it to be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. The bill likely will pass the senate.

Detroit's Health Board Bill a Law.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 28.—The Detroit health board bill is now a law, having been signed by Gov. Rich yesterday. Members of the board will be appointed this week. Although the bill providing for a general registration of the voters of Michigan this spring passed both houses it was recalled by the senate and referred, with the understanding it is not to be reported on. A new bill providing for a general reregistration previous to the fall election of 1896 will be passed.

Illinois Republicans Caucus.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—The republicans of the house held a caucus yesterday and took some action calculated to bring about a better attendance each week. The caucus also adopted a resolution binding the party to stand by the reports of the committee on appropriations. If this be followed it will do away with a vast amount of fighting over appropriations and necessitate an adjournment about May 20.

Another Canal Wanted.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Senator Allison has introduced in the senate a bill similar to the one presented in the house providing for the construction of a navigable canal through the United States from the great lakes to the St. Lawrence river and tide-water in the Hudson river, to be built by the Maritime Canal Company of New America.

A JOB FOR W. L. WILSON

STILL AFTER ADRY HAYWARD

Defense Adhere to Their Old Tactics—Jury May Give Out.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 27.—The defense in the Hayward murder case seems determined to fasten the responsibility for the highway robbery of April 27, 1894, on Adrian Hayward, the confessing brother of the accused. The chief incident of the trial yesterday was the testimony of Fred Horst that Adry Hayward hired a horse at 9 o'clock that evening and returned it at 10:30. This would have given him time to take part in the hold-up of his brother and Miss Ging and Miss Vedder. The defense expects to show that Adry was seen near the scene of the robbery that night. The defense also devoted some time to proving that Miss Ging had actually contemplated going into the millinery business on Nicollet avenue, an intention which would explain her desire to borrow money from Harry Hayward. The agent of the property to whom she talked of renting and two ladies for whom she had worked and to whom she had talked of her project gave the evidence.

There are renewed fears that the jury may not be able to stand the long strain of the trial successfully. Juror S. H. Dyer, the patriarchal boatbuilder, is suffering badly. Yesterday he had to be carried up stairs to the court room and provided with a cushioned rest for his leg.

M. P. Wilson, the liveryman, who swore he saw Harry Hayward driving with Miss Ging the night of the murder, was recalled and admitted he had told various people it was too dark that night to see the face of the man. Wilson explained he wanted to get out of testifying.

Court adjourned at 3:45 o'clock until this morning. Mr. Erwin stating that he expected to conclude his evidence by noon. Mr. Nye's closing will probably come Monday or Tuesday at the farthest. He will talk all of one day and perhaps more. Mr. Erwin expects to be a part of two days, so the case will hardly go to the jury before Friday of next week.

The most exciting part of the court session was in the afternoon, when Mr. Erwin made a final effort to get in his expert testimony regarding the alleged insanity of Adry Hayward. The court stated the attorney might try to prove total insanity by any act at any time, but not partial. The intense public feeling against the defendant was shown during the argument. Once when the court sat down upon Mr. Erwin in a more than usually forcible manner and ruled out the evidence the crowd, composed for the most part of women, broke into wild applause and the court became angered.

M. D. Wilson stated that Attorney Sweetser, on the defense, had virtually approached him with an offer of money if he would change his evidence. Mr. Sweetser denied it most emphatically afterward, and it will be left with the jury which to believe.

Mr. Nye brought out the fact that Miss Wachtler, the stenographer, who had started the state with the assertion that Bixt had said that he and Adry put up the job to kill Miss Ging, had been employed in Sweetser's office since her testimony was given.

There was an incident out of the ordinary as the prisoner was being taken from the court room to the jail. There was the usual crowd, and while he was passing some one from the outside threw into the road a noose made of evergreens. The prisoner walked over it but appeared not to notice what it was.

CALL IT CONSPIRACY.

South Dakota Takes Out Warrants for Taylor's Friends.

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 28.—A sensation was caused here yesterday by the arrest of Charles T. McCoy of Aberdeen, one of the leading politicians of the state, upon a warrant sworn out by Attorney-General Crawford against McCoy, Daniel K. Tenney, the well-known Chicago attorney and president of the civic federation; John L. McChesney, a prominent broker of New York, and Charles H. Wells of Chicago, who is known to be in close relations with Tenney. The warrant charges that the four men implicated formed a conspiracy to prevent W. W. Taylor, the late state treasurer, from paying over to the state the money in his possession Jan. 8, and to compel him to divide it among them.

McCoy will undoubtedly be bound over until the next term of the circuit court in May. The non-residents alleged to be in the conspiracy can not be reached on these proceedings unless they come to this state. Civil suits against them will be begun, however.

SHELLS AN AMERICAN.

British Man-of-War Knocks the Mast Out of the Ship.

Colon, Colombia, Feb. 28.—Steamers arriving here report that while they were at Bluefields, two weeks before, an American ship, whose name they did not know, arrived there. The British consul at Bluefields was informed that it had on board arms imported by Samuel Well. The American ship left Bluefields for Cape Gracias-a-Dios, north of Bluefields. The British man-of-war followed it there and found it landing two boat loads of arms. The Britisher fired on it, carrying away its mast. The state department at Washington still discredits the report.

Debate Over the Blacklisting Bill—Many Favor It But Their Views as to Its Provisions Differ Widely—New Board of Control Measure Reported Favorably.

Madison, Feb. 28.—The senate was flooded this morning with some fifty petitions from all parts of the state favoring the passage of an act against corrupt practices in elections, and for the extending of civil service rules in the cities of the state. There was a debate in the assembly over the substitute bill preventing black-listing. Many members want the bill, but differ widely as to its provisions. The bill providing the collection of taxes in saloons, passed by a vote of 73 to 22. The democrats were against the bill, and almost every republican was for it. The bills reported favorably upon were those legislating the present board of control out of office and providing for the purchase of a sword and punch bowl of General Joseph Bailey, of Red River fame.

A small debate was indulged in yesterday over ordering to a third reading senate bill No. 222, permitting the village of Evansville to incorporate as a city. Mr. Putnam favored the bill, but many other members objected on the ground that it is establishing a poor precedent to permit towns of less than 2,000 inhabitants to incorporate. The bill was passed to a third reading with seven votes against it.

A MILLION IN LOSSES.

Fierce Conflagration in Chicago Yesterday.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Fire, attended by many of the scenes of the great conflagration of 1871, caused the total destruction yesterday of the Kaestner & Co. building, 245 Jefferson street, and a section of the Crane Manufacturing Company's big plant adjoining on the north; scorched many neighboring structures and placed the lives of scores of panic-stricken girls and children in jeopardy. Two hundred and seventy-five girls employed in the Lancaster Caramel company, a block away from the fire, were maddened by fight and rushed down a narrow stairway. In their flight several fell and were trampled on and severely injured by the others. The greediest, angriest and most whipping flames that have baffled the fire department for years consumed over a half of a million dollar's worth of property in the short time of sixty minutes, scorched a dozen or more firemen and supplied a southwest gale with clouds of cinders and brands that were carried into the heart of the business district of the city for over a mile from the scene of the fire. The hall of cinders and hot fragments of wood, unaccompanied by large clouds of smoke, caused apprehension among business men and property owners in a radius of many blocks from the fire. But angry as the fire was, Chief Swenie and his assistants checked its progress when it appeared to be a certainty that a major portion of the West Side manufacturing district was in imminent danger. Firemen were driven from their posts on Jefferson street, two steamers had to be abandoned and the huge standpipes of the department was left to sizzle in the heat, but Chief Swenie stood in water nearly to his knees, directing the firemen and hoping that the walls of the Kaestner building would fall. "If these walls stand up long enough in those flames," shouted the chief to Marshal Campion, during the fiercest moment of the conflagration, "fire will get at everything east of us."

At this point the wind seemed to shift a few points, the flames leaped to a height of 200 feet and snapped in hopeless fury, and the walls collapsed. After that the danger of a more general conflagration was over. A thick fire wall separating the southern third of the Crane structure confined the fire to that portion of the elevator company's building occupied by heavy machinery, derricks and comparatively noncombustible material. The scene in the remaining portion of the Crane plant during the firemen's fight with the fire the other side of the fire-wall was a highly interesting one. Three floors filled with a bewildering sea of machinery swarmed with employees, each anxious to save the valuable patterns and small machinery. Firemen rode up and down the big freight elevator, kept running to remove patterns from the upper floors, and insurance patrolmen spread acres of tarpaulins over the machinery. Teams backed up to the alley doors, and were loaded with patterns. These precautions, however, were scarcely needed. The marshals informed A. D. Magill, of the firm of R. T. Crane & Co., that the fire would not be permitted to get into that portion of the plant north of the fire-wall. The firemen kept their word. The total loss will reach nearly $1,000,000.

MR. AND MRS. FORD AGREE TO DISAGREE

BRIDE AND GROOM OF TWO MONTHS FALL OUT.

Mrs. Ford Got Mad Because Her Husband Went to the Theatre Without Her and Parting Followed the Lively Quarrel That Ensued—The Mother-in-Law Is Blamed.

After but two short months of wedded life Mr. and Mrs. George O. Ford have agreed to disagree.

This is the word that Mr. Ford has sent several Janesville friends with the request that the fact be published.

Trouble had been brewing for some time and the last straw came when Mr. Ford went to the theatre with T. H. Wickes, Jr. and left Florence Lillian at home. Although he had telephoned his intentions of so doing there was a scene when he got home, which resulted in his packing his grip and leaving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford were married in this city on December 16, 1894, and the sensation that their wedding caused is well remembered. The bride, Miss Florence Lillian Wickes, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wickes, third vice president and manager of the Pullman Palace Car Company, and a strikingly stylish young lady, attracted much attention on the streets. She wore one of the new fashioned "ten-acre-and-ostich-farm" hats that was a novelty to Janesville's belles, although it was the "latest thing" in New York City. It was tilted to the right at a sharp angle, and with her flaxen hair and sealskin coat with its rakish collar, made her appearance striking, to say the least. She had a pleasant face and regular features, and many people enquired her name when she passed. She was the guest of Miss Kitty Ford, supposedly, although Mr. Ford was frequently seen walking with her.

MRS. GEORGE O. FORD.

Marriage Was Sanctioned.

Nothing more was thought about the matter for several days, and no importance was attached to young Ford's attentions to his sister's guest. Monday afternoon, December 17, Miss Wickes, Mr. Ford and his sister, Miss Kitty Ford, paid a visit to the parsonage of the Trinity church. A passer-by was called as the second witness, and when they emerged, it was Mr. and Mrs. George O. Ford.

MRS. T. H. WICKES.

Then the tongues began to wag and the pens to scratch. Chicago papers devoted columns to the story and ran "scent heads" made up of all the types in the office. Mr. Wickes, who was then in Europe, was cabled and Mrs. Wickes was notified by telegraph. T. H. Wickes, Jr., came to Janesville on a midnight train and blessings and well wishes followed. Mrs. Wickes gladly welcomed her new son-in-law and Mr. and Mrs. Ford went to visit her at her mansion, 3647 Grand Boulevard, Chicago, and all was as merry as a marriage bell. Mr. and Mrs. Ford went from Chicago to St. Louis where they visited Mrs. Ford's sister.

St. Louis papers gave them a half-column-and-notice. Then Mr. Ford went to work for the Pullman Company, and all things were apparently serene.

Trouble In The Family.

But there was trouble in the air. Mr. Ford and his bonny bride were as happy as could be, but this was not true of Mr. and Mrs. Wickes. The latter alleged that Mr. Wickes was addicted to pulling her about by the hair and often indulged in playful pleasantries of like nature. Hardly had Mr. Wickes ceased to be mentioned in connection with the great Chicago strike ere fame was thrust upon him from another source.

Mrs. Wickes sued for divorce. Then the magnate and his wife separated and he went to Europe while she went into retirement in the Grand Boulevard mansion. Mrs. Ford had been her father's favorite and it was said that he much disliked to have her associate with her mother. Mrs. Ford, before her marriage had joined fortunes with her father when the family crash came, and had not seen much of her mother. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ford predicted that any cloud that rolled over their happy sky would emanate from the trouble between Mrs. Ford's parents. When Mrs. Wickes got her divorce some days ago, Janesville people predicted freely just what had happened. They said that Mrs. Ford would be called upon to choose between her parents, and that complications would follow.

This seems to be about what happened. When the bill of divorce was granted and Mr. and Mrs. Wickes were both free, the trials of Mr. and Mrs. Ford began. Mr. Ford, so the story goes, saw the way the wind was blowing and generously told his unhappy wife that he stood ready to do anything in his power to lessen her trials, and so separation was finally agreed upon.

Mr. Ford Was Cast Off.

The Chicago Evening Post of last night said:

"Florence Wickes Ford, daughter of Vice President T. H. Wickes, of the Pullman company, who was married last December to George O. Ford in Janesville, Wis., has cast her young husband aside and announced her intention of resuming her studies to go on the stage. Her mother, Mrs. Wickes, recently divorced from Mr. Wickes, will soon apply for a divorce for her daughter.

"The husband of but three months had been living with his wife at the Wickes' home, 3547 Grand boulevard since the young couple came to Chicago. Yesterday he was informed by both his mother-in-law and his wife that he could leave. He was not wanted any more, and the young man left his bride's home to stop at the Hotel Normandie.

"Mr. Ford was not adverse to discussing the latest society sensation. Today he sent the particulars to Janesville for publication in the papers there.

Too Much Mother-in-Law.

"Too much mother-in-law to influence my wife," was the naive remark of Mr. Ford when asked for the reason for the sudden termination of the supposedly happy union. Mr. Wickes has been informed of the trouble between his daughter and her husband and is inclined to take the part of his son-in-law. To Mr. Ford he is reported to have said that the command received by Ford to leave because he was no longer wanted was what he expected.

"Gossips who recalled the romantic meetings of Florence and George, their courtship of a week and the marriage that came as a surprise to both the families of the bride and the groom, were agog with excitement today when the sensational developments became known. Florence was mainly attracted to George, it was said, by her intimate acquaintance with Mr. Ford's sister. The latter has been since informed by Florence that she regretted the marriage a week after it occurred. Florence is quite ill suffering with nervous prostration, but she is determined to go upon the stage. Her studies with John W. Norton, to fit herself for theatricals, were terminated by that manager's death.

Post Is Not Just.

The Post does Mr. Ford an injustice in publishing the fact that he was "cast off." Such is not the case. Mrs. Ford got mad because her husband went to the theatre without her, although her brother, T. H. Wickes, Jr. accompanied him. Mr. Ford telephoned her that he was going, but when he got home she was mad all the way through. Hot words followed and Mr. Ford took his grip and left. T. H. Wickes, Jr. called on him afterwards and tried to arrange matters but he was not successful. Mr. Ford will return to Janesville to live unless he succeeds in finding a position in Chicago. He is getting considerable notoriety on account of the separation as the Chicago and Milwaukee evening papers printed the story last night.

ALLISON'S FACTORY WENT UP IN SMOKE

FIRE CAUSED A LOSS OF $4,000 LAST NIGHT.

The Insurance Is $5,000—Blaze Was Discovered at Three O'clock This Morning But the Building Was Already Before the Alarm Was Turned In.

The Allison Furniture Factory was totally destroyed by fire at 3:30 o'clock this morning. There was an insurance on the building amounting to $1,000, and on contents, including stock and machinery of $4,000. The loss will be about $5,000.

The building is located on George place, near McKee boulevard, at the extreme southern limits of the city. The roads, after leaving the paved streets, were unusually heavy, and it was with much exertion and great care that the heavy apparatus was moved through the mud, especially on McKee boulevard. The steam fire engine nearly exhausted the team before reaching the fire. When near the scene it was ascertained that there was only a limited supply of water at the factory, which was being used to good advantage by the fire pump in the Hall factory so the engine was halted and ordered to return.

The alarm was turned in from box 333, located at the corner of McKee boulevard and Elliot street, but the fire was under good headway when discovered, and soon spread to all parts of the building. Owing to the dense fog which prevailed, the illumination did not make much of a show except in the immediate vicinity. The building was all down by 4 o'clock, and it is a total loss.

The building was owned by Mrs. A. W. Allison, 408 Court street, and was valued at about $3,000. The factory was operated by A. W. Allison, manufacturer of tables, which were given away in connection with the Allison baking powder.

Charles Viney, watchman at the factory, reports that he passed through the building at 2 o'clock, at which time everything appeared all right. He can give no explanation as to the cause of the fire but it was undoubtedly caused by spontaneous combustion in the paint or varnish room. Eight or ten hands are thrown out of employment by the blaze.

The factory was seriously damaged by fire June 6, 1893, and again last fall an incipient fire occurred which was extinguished in time to prevent serious results.

TO-DAY'S TERSE TOWN TALES

THE orders for visiting cards are coming in thick and fast. Prof. Nearing, the lightning card engraver, is having a big rush. If you want any you must leave your orders quick as the professor will only be with us a few days longer. And remember that we give a beautiful souvenir of this artistic work free with every purchase and this we will only do as long as the professor is with us. See him at work in our window. Smith's Pharmacy.

EX-ALDERMAN KURCK wishes his friends to know that he is a candidate for street commissioner. He says that twenty-seven years' residence in the city and continual loyalty to the republican party, entitles him to recognition. The republican convention will evidently have plenty of good timber to select from.

THE butchers are requested to meet at the city clerk's office at 7:30 tomorrow evening, to arrange for the second annual ball which occurs after Lent. All butchers who signed their names to the roll are expected to be present.

No use standing across the street and watching the people come in and buy tinware. Come in yourselves. We are selling cheaper at retail than any other dealer in the city buys. Lowell Hardware Co.

THE St. Catherine Reading Circle will meet in the U. C. L. hall Thursday, February 28, and not Wednesday, March 6 as was formerly announced. Helen Gateley, Secretary.

PROF. NEARING, the paper sculptor, who is occupying the front window of Smith's Pharmacy, is attracting large crowds of curious ones. He is an artist in his line of work.

SHE TELLS ALL.

The Whole Truth About the Matter Comes Out.

All the Details Exactly As They Happened.

And a More Remarkable Thing Never Was Known.

When a woman once makes up her mind to tell the whole truth about a matter, she does so with all her heart and gives without reservation or hesitation, all the facts just as they occurred. It is so with Mrs. C. E. Hudson, who resides in Brunswick, Mo., from whose lips fell as interesting story of extraordinary facts, as a newspaper writer ever gleaned for a reading public.

"Last year I was in such a condition that I could not walk or use my hands at all. My husband was obliged to lead me from the bed to the table, and almost carry me, I was so bad off.

"I was taken with the gripe in the form of muscular rheumatism. It took me in the right leg first and the pain was awful. It was about two years ago that I was taken, and I suffered all the time up to last fall, when I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I had tried many other kinds of medicines, but steadily grew worse. Last fall I commenced with Nervura. My bones were growing out of shape, and I could not so much as wring out a handkerchief, or stir up a mess of bread, or use my hands at all.

"I took twelve bottles in all. After using the first five bottles I began to gain, and now I call myself well.

"I am so grateful that I have recommended it to many persons and shall continue to do so. It seems almost a miracle to my neighbors and myself, that from being so terribly afflicted as I was last fall, I should be a well woman today, a space of only six months.

MRS. C. E. HUDSON.

"For over a year and a half I did not get more than an hour and a half sleep each night, but after taking the Nervura I began to sleep, and as I began to sleep I began to gain, and after I had gained one hour's sleep more than I had before I was greatly rejoiced.

"My husband has paid out hundreds of dollars for my cure, in each kind of medicine I could name, but nothing helped me until I took Dr. Greene's nerve and blood remedy."

A wonderful story this, and yet every statement is absolutely true. No person ever suffered more than Mrs. Hudson, and no more wonderful cure was ever effected than this marvelous cure by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. If this medicine will cure such a terrible and extraordinary case, it will surely cure anything and everything in the line of rheumatism or neuralgia. How anyone can read about this remarkable cure and not give Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy an immediate trial, is beyond the comprehension of the writer. In the face of such strong evidence of its curative powers, sufferers who will not at least give it a trial, deserve to continue to suffer. Particularly should it be taken now, as such diseases always yield more quickly and are cured more readily in the spring.

Another reason why this grand medicine can be taken with the utmost confidence is, the fact that its discoverer is our most successful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York city, who can be consulted free of charge by all who choose to write him or call upon him.

Headache is the direct result of indigestion and stomach disorders. Remedy these by using De Witt's Little Early Risers, and your headache disappears. The favorite little pills everywhere. C. D. Stevens.

The "New Boy."

A delightful roaring farce comedy will be hers on Friday night next. It is "The New Boy," the sensation of New York, London and other great cities. It is all about "The New Boy" at school. He is hazed and forced to steal apples and do drudgery for the bully. But he is not a boy at all. He is a little man recently married to a big, handsome widow, who has been made matron of the school by the doctor, her old admirer. Manager Stoddard will explain.

LIKE UNTO VENICE ARE MANY STREEST

GOOD GONDOLAS ARE NOW MUCH IN DEMAND.

First and Fifth Ward People Complain to the Mayor That They Are Surrounded By Water While Second Ward People Have a Deep Miniature Lake to Sail On.

Floods are now making much trouble for Janesville people. In addition to the picturesque "Potter's Pond," Fifth, First and Second ward people are greatly bothered.

A delegation of First and Fifth ward people filed into Mayor Thorogood's office.

"We are surrounded with water up on Palm and Ravine streets," the spokesman said. "The water around some of our houses is four feet deep, and we have to use boats to get in and out. Some of our cellars are filled, and I am afraid if it rains my little house will be floated away. The gutters are so constructed that all the water of the greater portion of the First ward flows in upon us and there is no outlet. A lake has been formed in our neighborhood and our homes are being ruined, besides we are in great danger of contracting sickness."

The mayor expressed his sympathy, remarking that he was powerless and referred them to the aldermen of the wards. The authorities are trying to devise some means to drain the flooded district.

Another large pond or miniature lake has formed on Fifth avenue, completely blocking that thoroughfare as well as Fourth avenue at the intersection of the two streets. Here the water is about two feet deep, covering considerable territory, and blocking all foot travel. There is no drainage, and the only outlet for the accumulation of this large quantity of water is by the way of China and Japan. There is now a petition before the council for the grading of Fifth avenue, but the people residing near the point now inundated, protest against filling up this sink hole and threaten to sue for damage in case the street is so graded. Perhaps, one who wanted the work done says, that after wading through this lake a few times in going and coming from their homes, their minds will undergo a change.

BIG PAPER PRINTED FOR CHARITY

Milwaukee Journal Office Was Turned Over to the Ladies.

The enterprising Milwaukee Journal, although completely unregenerate politically, never does things by halves. They turned the office over to the ladies of the Cream City on Washington's birthday, and the proceeds were given to charity. As a result, a forty eight page paper was distributed to their subscribers on that day, all matter being furnished by the women. The edition was a very attractive one and in addition it was new and interesting. The profit was a goodly sum, and will doubtless carry comfort into many a cheerless home. You mustn't pin your faith to the Journal's editorials, unless you wish to go wrong, but otherwise, it is a mighty good newspaper.

In the office of health is vigor, which means not merely muscular energy but an active discharge of the various functions of the body such as digestion, secretion of the bile, the action of the bowels, the circulation of the blood. Nothing more actively and thoroughly contributes to the united performance of these functions than the renowned tonic and regulator, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The result of its use is a speedy gain in strength, together with the agreeable consciousness that the tenure of life is being strengthened—that one is lying up a store of vitality against the unavoidable draughts which old age makes upon the system. The forty years' experience of the Bitters constitute it a reliable safeguard against malaria, rheumatism and kidney trouble. Appetite and sleep improve through its use, and it protects the system from the effects of cold and damp.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1631—Henry Stubbe, the most noted Greek and Latin scholar of his time, born.
 1712—Louis Joseph, marquis of Montcalm, born; died of wounds near Quebec 1759.
 1752—William Augustine Washington, the soldier who wounded Tarleton at Cowpens, S. C., born in Stafford county, Va.; died 1810. William Augustine was an acknowledged kinsman of the "Father of His Country," but he made his own way in life by reason of his frankness and courage. He was a gallant soldier and led many charges of mounted men. After the war closed he settled in South Carolina, where he became a legislator. Nomination for governor of his adopted state he declined because he could "not make a speech."
 1825—General Quincy Adams Gillmore, who directed the siege of Charleston, born in Lorain county, O.; died in Brooklyn 1888.
 1890—Alphonse de Lamartine, French poet, historian and moderate Liberal statesman, died; born 1805.
 1892—Major General George W. Cullum, distinguished soldier of the regular army, died in New York; born Feb. 25, 1809.

THAT DOLLAR WHEAT.

From the American Economist.

The annual report from the farm crops of 1894, just issued by the department of agriculture, suggests an investigation as to the realization of those dollar wheat promises that were made by the free traders during the presidential campaign of 1892. We accordingly take the averages for the three McKinley years of protection and compare them with the averages during the two years that the free traders have had the opportunity to give the farmers their dollar wheat. Thus:

Years.	Total crop.	Per bushel.	Per acre.
1890-91.....	$300,119,423	$0.767	$10.16
1893-94.....	219,536,703	0.515	6.32

During the three years of Protection, 1890-92, the farmers of the United States received an average of $170.-583,720 a year more money for their wheat crops than they did in 1893 and 1894, under the Free-Trade Administration. The wheat crop was worth $3.84 an acre more under Protection than in the Free-Trade times. The average price was 76.7 cents per bushel on the farm under protection, but only 45.5 cents a bushel since the Free-Traders have had the opportunity to pay the farmers that $1 a bushel.

It must not be thought that the low price during 1893 and 1894 was due to unusually large crops. It was not. The average harvest during the three years of protection was 508,997,000 bushels a year, whereas it averaged only 428,199,570 bushels a year for 1893 and 1894. Under protection the yield averaged 13.2 bushels an acre, but during the two years of the free trade administration the yield averaged only 12.3 bushels an acre. The free traders had everything in their favor for high prices, yet the farm value of their wheat has been just 48½ cents a bushel short of that promised dollar. Can this be the result of selling in the markets of the world?

There is a great deal of food for thought in the above statement. The farmer who voted for democratic free trade, hoping thereby to gain the benefits of the open markets, has long since realized that he made a great mistake. The home market, which is the best in the world, has been paralyzed, and tens of thousands of consumers have existed largely on soup during the past two years.

When the nation prospers and the great tolling masses find steady employment, wheat will be enhanced in value, and the farmer, as well as the business man will be profited.

Bishop Fallows' "Home Salon" is meeting with wonderful success in Chicago. The demand for his temperance beverage is greater than the supply, and the brewers and saloon men are attempting a boycott. The innovation will be watched with considerable interest by temperance people. That Bishop Fallows is sincere in his efforts to reform young men, no one will question.

The new issue of bonds is selling rapidly in the New York market, at a premium close to $1.20, a profit of about sixteen per cent. Every sale means another spike in the coffin of an administration that has demonstrated its inability to conduct the affairs of government with ordinary business sagacity.

Congressman Fithian, of Illinois, denounces President Cleveland for his effort to suppress lawlessness in the great Chicago strike last summer. He endorses Governor Altgeld as the man who will live in history as the exponent of law. Mr. Fithian is evidently catering to the socialistic vote.

The free silver democrats in the house, propose to put themselves on record by issuing a manifesto in favor of free coinage. The document will make an appropriate epitaph for an expiring party that has outlived its usefulness.

MADE LIFE A BURDEN.

MISS G. F. CRAWFORD, of Limestone, Md., writes: "For years I suffered monthly from periodic pains which at times were so acute as to render life a burden. I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I used seven bottles in as many months and derived so much benefit from it and the home-treatment recommended in his Treatise on Diseases of Women, that I wish every woman throughout our land, suffering in the same way, may be induced to give your medicines and treatment a fair trial."

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing and strengthening nerve, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every "female complaint," it is the only remedy so sure that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't cure, you have your money back.

WHIST GIVES WAY TO CHARITY WORK

JANESVILLE LADIES ARE TO SEW FOR THE POOR.

"Afternoon Club" Will Lay Cards Aside During Lent and Meet Once Each Week to Make Clothes For the Needy—Other Tales Gathered On the Street.

During lent, the "Ladies' Afternoon Whist Club" will be known as the "Ladies' Afternoon Sewing Club." They will meet once a week to sew for the poor. The plan is for each lady to contribute ten cents for current expenses, while the hostess furnishes the material and cuts out the garments. The club then does the rest. The finished articles will be distributed by the ladies themselves who will investigate and relieve cases personally. The club is composed of ladies who are always active in charitable work and they will hold their first meeting under the new plan with Mrs. H. V. Allen Wednesday afternoon. The members are Mesdames, E. D. Tallman, Minnie S. Conrad, S. B. Smith, L. H. Becker, A. L. Kavel-edge, W. G. Wheeler, D. W. Watt, E. M. Hyzer, A. P. Burnham, A. H. Barrington, C. W. Jackson, J. B. HELROTH IS JAILED BY SKILLFUL WORK

SHERIFF APPLEBY GETS HIS FOURTH PRISONER.

He Is the One to Whom the Goods Taken From the C. & N. W. Car Were Consigned—Clever Ruse Was Worked by the Sheriff to Effect His Capture.

With a pocket full of electric light contracts and leading a crest-fallen gentleman with handcuffs on his wrists, Sheriff Appleby returned from Chicago last night.

The man was Edward Helroth of Chicago, and to him were consigned the goods stolen from the Chicago & Northwestern car some days ago, supposedly by Flynn, Crowley and Franklin, the three men who were jailed a day or two ago. Helroth's capture was only effected after skillful planning on the part of the sheriff. When the sheriff got Flynn, Crowley and Franklin on the charge of looting a C. & N. W. car of $815 worth of goods most people thought he had done a pretty good day's work, but the sheriff, like Alexander, wanted more world's to conquer. With this idea in view he visited Chicago and remained there until last night. When the goods were found in the car at Rockford, they were consigned to a certain place in Chicago. The sheriff thought it might be a good thing to be on hand when the goods were delivered, so he at once began to lay his plans. Workmen were engaged in building an electric line on the street in question and when the sheriff saw them stringing the wires a bright idea struck him and he rapped at the first door.

"I am the contractor for this line" he said "I propose to tap this trolley wire and furnish all people who wish them with incandescent electric lights. My price will be $7 a month and I guarantee my lights to be satisfactory. Who lives here?"

"Mr. Jones?"

"Do you know a man named Helroth?"

"No."

Got Contracts and His Man.

The contract for the lights was closed at once and the sheriff moved on to the next house. Here the same dialogue was repeated and the sheriff followed the street until he finally struck a house where they knew Mr. Helroth. It was a large red brick structure and the sheriff palavered with them for a long time on the lighting question, finally getting all the information that he wanted as well as a remunerative contract.

In the mean time he had been "playing both ends against the middle" as one of the men arrested might say. While he was working the street he had two railroad detectives stationed at the St. Paul depot to see who came for the boxes. They looted about the place and their watchfulness was finally rewarded.

Helroth drove up in a light wagon, and had the boxes under the seat and started the horse off on a brisk trot almost before they knew it. The two detectives took about the same gait and kept the wagon in sight. It finally pulled up in front of the red brick house and Helroth jumped to the ground. He noticed that a short, stocky looking man was standing on the steps but he was talking about "volts" and "candle power" so he took him for what he was supposed to be, the contractor for the trolley line and purveyor of electricity. He didn't know that the short, stocky man was the sheriff of Rock county, Wisconsin, but he realized it very soon after he felt the hand cuffs on his wrists. By this time the railroad detectives had reached the scene, and the procession moved. The remunerative electric lighting contracts were forgotten and the trolley line was abandoned.

Helroth lived in Beloit for some time, but had not been seen about there for weeks.

Helroth Confessed.

The goods were easily identified and Helroth confessed to his connection with the robbery and said that in it his feet were both frozen. He had been sent to Wisconsin with a team to purchase farm products, but had fallen in with a gang of car thieves. The gang had operated, he said, for six months, and he told of a number of "jobs" done. He was willing to go to Janesville without requisition papers, and just before starting said that he would reveal the hiding place of the gang and a large quantity of stolen property.

Helroth was taken to Beloit this afternoon where he had a hearing and was held in $2,000 bonds for examination in the municipal court on March 5.

Six suits of new clothes were found buried in a sand pit just across the state line at Beloit, by railroad men. The clothing was identified as a part of that belonging to the stock taken from the car by the gang of crooks from Canada that Sheriff Appleby ran down.

"WOOD CASE" COMES TO TRIAL

Colored Man Wants $25,000 For Being Excluded From a Dining Room.

John Harris, the colored porter at James Sweeney's barber shop, left last evening for Beloit, where he will appear as a witness in the famous Wood case, where suit is brought against the Lake Superior Steamboat Line for twenty five thousand dollars damages for refusing to allow a colored man to eat at the same table with the white guests.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

Don't you believe it, when envious people tell you that we are a lot of mean purps, that we are going down the hill, that we are losing our trade. We are modest people, but in justice to ourselves we must say that we are not as mean as we look, and we positively announce that we are on the upgrade with one hundred pounds of steam, throttle wide open, and selling twice as many shoes as last year. Under the circumstances, do you think we would think of moving to Aurora?

THE JOHNSON'S ARE ARRESTED

The Beloit Saloonists Charged with Receiving Stolen Goods.

Sheriff Appleby went to Beloit this afternoon, and arrested C. D. and S. P. Johnson, proprietors of the saloon from which the goods stolen from the C. & N. W. cars were shipped, on the charge of receiving stolen goods, when they knew the same to be stolen. They gave bonds, and will be brought into the municipal court for examination March 5.

MISS LIGHTFOOT'S UNLUCKY FALL

Walked Into the Opening in the Sidewalk at Powell's Bakery.

Miss Emma Lightfoot fell into an open man-hole in the sidewalk in front of Powell's bakery yesterday afternoon, and struck her head against the stone walk, cutting a gash that bled profusely. She was taken to a neighboring drugstore, where her wounds were dressed. Miss Lightfoot was walking with a number of schoolmates. When the party reached Jackson street, they missed her and going back found that she had met with the accident. The cover had been taken from the man-hole while a load of wood was being unloaded.

BENEATH A BURDEN OF SORROW

Funeral of Mrs. Garnett.

The remains of Mrs. William Garnett, of Afton, widow of Rev. William Garnett, and mother of Mrs. A. S. Waite, were buried beside her husband in the village cemetery yesterday afternoon. Funeral services conducted by Dr. H. A. Palmer, of this city, were held in the Afton church at 1 o'clock. Her husband was a Baptist minister, and preached in New York state over forty years ago. They came to this country in 1880, and after eight months' faithful service in Afton, the husband died. Mr. Garnett possessed all those womanly virtues which won her friends on every side, and she never grew tired in the work for her Master. There was a large attendance at the funeral. The pall bearers were W. J. Miller, George Antisdell, William Brinkman and George Charles.

Jessie Z. Hamilton.

Miss Jessie Z. Hamilton died at her home in Johnstown yesterday morning aged forty-nine years. She leaves a brother and sister to mourn her loss. The funeral will be held at her late home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the burial will take place at Johnstown Center.

A Decided Success.

One of the most successful dry goods sales in the city was that of J. M. Bostwick & Son's silk and satin sale today. Instead of the day being dark and dreary as it opened up it became bright and the brightness lent a glow to the handsome pieces of silks, satins and jet trappings that can only be appreciated by being seen. Many were the exclamations of surprise at the immense variety and many a lady obtained a handsome dress today, the kind that only can be had at The Big Store.

BIDS CAME THICK AT THE TAX SALE

W. H. H. MACLOON BREAKS A RECORD FOR LOW PRICES.

He Will Run the Risk of Getting His Money Back on Some Milton Avenue Lots For One Millionth Part of the Land—Many Wanted to Speculate on Certificates.

There was a lively time in the city treasurer's office this afternoon, the occasion being the auction sale of city real estate for unpaid city taxes for 1894.

There was a large number present, among whom were many speculators, whose only aim is to obtain 25 per cent on their money. Others were there to procure tax certificates on which they held prior liens or claims, and still others attended as idle spectators.

City Treasurer Fathers posed as the auctioneer, and the sale opened at 1:30 o'clock. Parties who were present for the purpose of securing certificates on property on which they held legitimate claims, had no opposition, and generally were successful in obtaining the certificates, but when the "speculators" commenced bidding the excitement was highest. At a tax sale the property goes to the lowest bidder, that is the bidder who offers to pay the tax and costs and take the smallest portion of the land, which in every case must be from the north end or side of the land. Thus, bids were made, first for the entire tract, for one-half, for one-quarter, one-eighth, one-sixteenth, one-thirty-second, one-sixty-fourth, and so on. In one instance, that of a description embracing two 4 by 8 lots on Milton Avenue, against which the tax and costs amounted to $13.56. The bidding was quite exciting, and it was run down to one one millionth part, by W. H. H. Macloon. The Gazette has not had time this afternoon to figure up just how much land will be covered by Mr. Macloon's tax deed, but probably not enough space to accommodate the smallest thread along the north side.

Prof. Nearing

She Wanted to Know.
The new servant girl came to her mistress crying and holding on to her finger.
"What's the matter?" asked the lady of the house.
"I stuck one of the forks into my hand, and if it's plated ware I'll get lockjaw."
"Don't be alarmed," said the lady, "all my silver is genuine. I don't keep any plated ware."
Next morning the servant girl and the silver were both missing.—Tammany Times.

There Are Many of Him.
At last she had rebelled. Mildly. "They tell me you lead a double life," she said, looking straight into the eyes of the confused man before her.
"Me?" he gasped.
"Yes, you. I hear that when you are away from home you are as pleasant and good-natured a man as can be found anywhere."—Indianapolis Journal.

After "Hiawatha."
He killed the noble Majordomo. With his skin he made him mittens. Made them with the fur side inside. Made them with the skin side outside. He got the warm side inside. Put the cold side, skin side, outside. Put the warm side, fur side, inside. That's why he put the fur side inside. Why he put the fur side inside. Why he put the skin side outside. Why he turned them inside outside.

SHE WAS AN ARTIST.

Chimney—Say, Maggie, you're a wonder when it comes to cooking—you oughten ter be waster yer accomplishments here, fer the way you kin cook fancy dishes like liver and bacon, is a perfect dream.—Truth.

Potpie.
Mary had a little hen
With feathers white as snow,
The preacher paid a visit; then
The chicken had to go.
—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Great Show for a Dollar.
"Been to the theater, eh? What did you see?"
"I saw a large black hat, with five ostrich feathers, a rhinestone buckle and two magenta roses. And once, (here the strong man's voice trembled) once, for one moment, I thought I saw half of a sofa at the extreme left of the stage; but I cannot be sure."—Life.

All Fired.
"Jinks is a fiery young man, isn't he?"
"Yes. Why, only the other night he was sparking with his latest flame, and the old man, who doesn't approve of the match, came in and raised blazes and finally fired him after they had had a hot time of it, and poor Jinks' plans all went up in smoke."
"Well, it's a burning shame."—Judge.

It Generally Works.
Politiks—It would be a great thing for me if I could get some of my constituents to eulogize me handsomely just now. Can you think of any way of getting them to do so?
Hartless—Yes. Die.—Chicago Record.

Two Ways.
Little Boy—What's the difference between an advanced woman and any other woman?
Little Girl—Why, don't you know? An ordinary woman doesn't let her husband know that she is bossin' him, but an advanced woman does.—Good News.

A Graveyard Affair.
Editor (to author)—In one respect, at least, your story covers the ground.
Author (transported)—Oh, thanks! I am delighted!
Editor—Yes; all your characters die early.—Atlanta Constitution.

That Explains It.
Mistress (on the second day to new cook)—Kathi, just be so good as to lend me five marks.
Cook (aside)—Ha, ha! that's why she said yesterday the cook in her house was treated as one of the family!—Der Schalk.

Heroines.
Little Dick—Mamma was readin' something about a heroine. Wat's a heroine?
Little Dot—I don't know 'xactly, but I guess it's a girl w'at puts out the light an' then gets into bed wifout pullin' her feet in quick.—Good News.

And Yet It Is a Monologue.
"I've just written a monologue."
"What is the character it is written for—a man or a woman?"
"This monologue is written for two characters—a man and his wife."—Life.

His Modesty Explained.
"The major is one of the most modest and retiring of men."
"What business is he in?"
"Moonshine distillery."—Atlanta Constitution.

Wise Ancients.
Traveler—The houses in some of the ancient cities had walls ten feet thick.
Mr. Brickrow (enviously)—I presume some of the neighbors were musical.—N. Y. Weekly.

Preparing for Emergencies.
"What are you reading, dear?"
"The courtship of Miles Standish; Jack is coming to-night, you know."—Truth.

At the Theater.
She wore a high hat to the play.
The man behind her said:
"It often happens just this way.
I'm beaten by a head."
—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Boy Was Heard.
The teacher was trying to explain some abstract theories to a class of half-grown boys.
"Now, Charles Smith," she said, "what is the highest expression of force under the control of intelligence?"
It was a poser for Charles, and he looked at her in dumb stupidity, but a bright-faced boy next to him didn't.
"I know," he said eagerly.
"Well," said the teacher, "what is it?"
"It's what mother says to pop when he comes in about two o'clock in the morning."—Detroit Free Press.

About the Size of It.
Mrs. Longnecker (of Squantuck Corners)—Who's that drivin' by, I wonder? I declare, I believe it's that Pushington girl, from the city, that's visitin' at the Talcotts'. Peek through the blinds here, Almira, an' see 'f taint.
Miss Almira Fortysmith—Yes, that's who 'tis; but who's that sappy-lookin' little feller with her? Do you s'pose he's the one that they say's goin' to marry her?
Mrs. Longnecker—Shouldn't wonder. I guess that's her fiasco.—Harper's Bazar.

Full Confession.
A story of Scotch honesty comes from Dundee. A little boy there, a pupil in one of the schools, had taken the prize for an exceptionally well-drawn map. After the examination the teacher, a little doubtful, asked the lad:
"Who helped you with your map, James?"
"Nobody, sir."
"Come now, tell me the truth. Didn't your brother help you?"
"No, sir; he did it all."—Youth's Companion.

Before the War.
Mrs. Madderyet—Dear me! How stout I am growing! Have you noticed, hubby? My cheek and neck just lay in folds.
Hubby—Haven't paid much attention to the folds in your neck lately, but I notice your cheek increases.—Judge.

The Down-Trodden Sex.
Mrs. Highupp (wearily)—Woman's work is never done.
Mrs. Wayupp (dreadfully)—Too true. A man may get rich and retire from business, but a woman must go on making and receiving calls to the day of her death.—N. Y. Weekly.

Her Wish.
"What do you think of this portrait of me, my dear?" asked Witherup.
"It is very smiling and pleasant," said Mrs. Witherup.
Then she added, wistfully: "I wish you'd look like it once in awhile, John."—Tit-Bits.

They Do.
Twynn—I think that women, in invading the vocations of men, should draw the line at the barber business.
Triplett—Why shouldn't they become barbers, too? Do they not possess all the tonsorial conversational requirements?—Judge.

Matrimonial Item.
Mrs. Manykids—Why don't you get married?
Mr. Oldbatch—I am afraid my children might turn out to be no good.
Mrs. Manykids—Perhaps you are right. It might keep on running in the family.—Texas Siftings.

Economize.
One and a half teaspoonfuls Horsford's Baking Powder gives better results than two full teaspoonfuls of any other.

FREEDOM FROM FRECKLES.

and from all such disfigurements and blemishes, follows the use of the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. It clears and freshens the skin wonderfully—takes away that dull and mottled look that comes from stomach derangements. Even in chronic and stubborn cases of skin disorders, like eczema, it is the prescribed remedy.
The blood, the liver, the stomach, the kidneys—all are acted upon powerfully, but naturally, by the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt. You get the same benefit, the same cure, the same feeling of lightness and clearness all through your system, as if you were at Carlsbad itself.
Beware of the many imitations sold as "improved" or "artificial" Carlsbad Salt. These are only mixtures of Seidlitz Powder and common Glauber Salt, sold by unscrupulous dealers for the larger profit they yield.
Insist upon the genuine imported, natural Carlsbad Sprudel Salt, which is evaporated from the Sprudel Spring at Carlsbad, and bears the seal of the city and the signature of "EISNER & MENDELSON Co., Sole Agents, New York," on every bottle.

REMEMBER there are hundreds of brands of White Lead (so called) on the market that are not White Lead, composed largely of Barytes and other cheap materials. But the number of brands of genuine is limited. The following brands are standard "Old Dutch" process, and just as good as they were when you or your father were boys:
Strictly Pure White Lead

"Southern," "Red Seal," "Collier," "Shipman."
For Colors.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 25-pound keg of Lead and mix your own paints. Saves time and annoyance in matching shades, and insures the best paint that is possible to put on wood.
Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.
